MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION AND ANALYSISDisclaimer

The shareholders are hereby cautioned that this discussion and analysis mainly comprises statements that involve predictions based on risks and uncertainties. It is the sum total of the Company's expectations, beliefs, estimates and projections, which may be termed as "forward looking" within the meaning of the existing laws. These are the management's perceptions and the actual results may differ materially from those expressed specifically or implied. The major factors which could affect the perception and projections are the changes in the Govt. regulations, demand and supply of the products, fluctuation in foreign currency exchange rates, etc.

The shareholders are cautioned not to place undue reliance on these statements and should caution themselves while considering these statements for any decision making or formation of an opinion. This should be read in conjunction with the Company's financial statements.

The core business of the Company is manufacturing and marketing of synthetic blended yarn, wool and wool mix yarn, synthetic and worsted spun fabrics, readymade garments and madeups. The Company has also started production of technical fabrics. The Company perceives good scope for increase in production and sale for this kind of fabrics.

a) Industry Structure, its Development and Opportunity

The Indian Textile Industry was stagnant during the period 1996-2000 and hardly any worthwhile investment was made during this period. The Government, in 2000 started the Technology Upgradation Fund (TUF), which allowed interest subsidy of 5% simultaneously, the interest rates in general also came down and, therefore, finance became available at interest rate ranging between 4 and 6 percent per annum. This allowed the industry to expand its capacity very substantially.

Bulk of this investment has gone into expansion of spinning capacity in the wake of increased cotton production in India coupled with the profitable nature of the activity. However, the spinning industry was too much dependent on export of cotton to china and other countries on the contrary Indian yarns became more expensive on account of Rupee appreciation. China also expanded its own capacity as such, the Spinning capacity of Indian Textile Industry became surplus. Simultaneously, the World recession also started and 2008 & 2009 saw many textile mills suffering on account of this Mills incurred huge losses on account of sudden Rupee appreciation which also resulted in many mills losing considerable money. However, with the Rupee once again becoming attractive, the Indian industry has started looking up and, now, the Indian textile industry is again full of enthusiasm in expectation of increased profitability.

Investment is now being made in weaving and processing segment's; simultaneously, garmenting industry is also expanding to avail the benefit of value addition.

Textile is the 2nd largest employment generating industry in the country. Therefore, the Government is continuously extending support for growth of this segment. The Indian Textile Industry is poised for big growth in the wake of the following positive factors:

- 1) India has surplus production of cotton and with the new policy of Government in which cotton exports are discouraged and value added products are preferred, is a positive factor for Indian textile industry.
- 2) Comparatively low cost of labour in India and other Asian countries may attract more and more textile business from developed countries to this region.
- 3) India is fast becoming a preferred destination for several global brands for sourcing their requirements in the textile and apparel segments.
- 4) Indian textile industry is now known for better designs, colours and new products besides a flexible product mix which gives the customer an exclusive range.
- 5) Stable political climate, trade friendly economic laws and growing economy of India inspires confidence among the foreign buyers.
- 6) The availability of dyed viscose in the country enables the Indian industry to offer a wider range of varieties of the products.
- 7) Growing fashion consciousness all over will widen the market for the speciality designed products both within and outside the country.

The positive factors as above can be expected to drive the industry towards a positive growth. However, while considering these, it would be unfair to overlook the impact of fluctuating exchange rate i.e. USD against INR, volatile crude oil and coal prices, non-availability of trained manpower mainly for garment business and unpredictable nature of demand for supply position of the textile products.

b) Overview of the Company's performance

During the year under review, the Company has added fixed assets of Rs.4,585 lacs besides the capital work-in-progress at Rs.828 lacs and advances of Rs.1,622 lacs to capital goods suppliers as at 31.03.2010. These expenses were incurred on specific projects for expansion, diversification and modernization in all the areas of the company's operations viz. spinning, weaving, finishing and readymade garments.

The Company has made investment of Rs.2,280 lacs in spinning for modernization and replacement of spindles, Rs.447 lacs on fabric weaving replacing 20 looms, Rs.951 lacs on fabric processing value adding machines suitable for technical fabrics and increase in the processing capacity by about one million meters a month besides Rs.907 lacs on readymade garments to add 4 additional lines for trousers and 1 line for production of Jackets at Daman and Surat.

The Company has plans to consolidate and achieve optimum capacity utilization of recently installed additional production capacities like spinning of wool and wool mix yarns, cotton yarn dyeing, production of jacquard fabrics, increase in processing capacity, as also the increase in production levels of trousers and jackets. The Company has increased exports of value added fabrics and garments; the share of this segment in the total turnover has increased from 44% in 2007-08 to 50% during the year. The Company has started commercial production of Technical fabrics.

The Company is increasing consumption of self produced yarn for production of fabric and own fabric for garments. Presently, about 35% of the yarn is being consumed for fabrics. Similarly, about 15% of the fabric production is delivered to the Company's own garment units. There is good potential to increase it. The ultimate aim is to increase the share of value added textiles other than yarn to 65% of total sales.

Carreman, a French Customer, which is also JV Partner of the Company, is providing knowledge and design for new fabric development. They had so far been providing these services from their French establishments. Now, the J.V. Company is developing/upgrading a new in-house design studio and sampling dept. in India.

The Company has achieved gross turnover of Rs.64,683 lacs and net profit of Rs.3,088 lacs for the year 2009-10. The performance is likely to improve in the next year on account of capacity increases as well as emphasis on value added productions viz. fabrics, garments etc.

c) Segment-wise performance
